Torfaen Residents Survey 2022

Members welcomed Katie Jenkins, Lead Engagement Officer and Louise Day, Communications Manager from Torfaen Council's Communications and Engagement team, to the meeting.

They provided a presentation to members about the Torfaen Residents Survey. They have created a new engagement platform called Get Involved. The Officers explained that they are currently providing the Annual Resident's Survey, together with the Council's developing five-year plan for the borough and the Council's budget forecast for the next financial year.

The Engagement Officer reported that TCBC has an online community engagement hub, which is convenient, easy to use and can be done in your own time. Consultations include documents, photos, videos and details of how you can speak to the team face-to-face. They explained how you can register and join the site and keep track of what happens next.

The Officer explained how the annual residents survey provides valuable feedback about council services. It provides the Council with the public's views on what you think needs to be done and will ultimately shape how the services are prioritised and delivered in the future.

All responses received will be analysed and presented to the Council's Chief Executive and senior leaders. They are also given to individual service areas. As well as providing valuable feedback to teams about what you think of the Council's services. From this year, the survey will also be an important measure for the Council's new County Plan. The survey closes at the end of November 2022.

The Torfaen County Plan highlights the Council's ambitions and well-being objectives for the borough until 2027. It includes 9 priorities including raising educational attainment, encouraging new businesses and improving the local environment. It also includes a list of specific targets that will be updated every year.

Officers are asking everyone to complete the surveys, if Cwmbran Community Council can promote the surveys on their website and social media channels, through noticeboards and wherever possible.

Members thanked the Officers for their presentation and it was noted that the surveys would be shared with all members and through the Council's social media platforms.

It was Resolved:-

- a) that the Officers are thanked for their full report and presentation
- b) that the surveys are shared with all members through Members Matters and available on the Council's social media platforms.

13 Review of the Community Areas and Community Electoral Arrangements

The Council had recently received information from Torfaen County Borough Council who are undertaking a review of the community areas and community electoral arrangements, which Torfaen County Borough Council has a duty to keep under review in accordance with Section 25 of the Local (Democracy) (Wales) Act 2013. The last general review was undertaken in 2012 with new arrangements being agreed and implemented in the 2017 Election.

The Local Democracy and Boundary Commission for Wales is currently planning the next round of reviews for County Borough wards. The first step in initiating the community warding reviews is for Torfaen County Borough Council to formally approve the process and to establish a Reform Working Group. A report to achieve this review was taken to TCBC's Full Council meeting. They are still awaiting the results.

It was Resolved that the position is noted.
